But a combination of the EXTRACT OF CELERY AND CHAMOMILE, which has been but recently introduced to the profession and the public by myself has produced such marvellous results in curing nervousness and headache and especially nervous and sick headaches, neuralgia, bad digestion and sleeplessness, that it has excited public attention and newspaper comments, and, therefore, I give the following information to the public to avoid answering hundreds of letters of inquiry about them

REMARKS OF MR WILSON, OF ORONO.

The following are extracts from, and a part of, the remarks of Mr. Wilson, of Orono, in opposition to the bill reported by the Joint Committee of the House and Senate in relation to the State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, delivered in the House, Wednesday, the 11th of March.

Mr. Wilson said

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen It may look like gross presumption in me to interpose objections to the passage of a bill reported to this House by so large and so intelligent a committee, after mature and deliberate consideration and a visit to the college; but I am glad to learn that, instead of the whole twenty comprising the Committee on Education and Agriculture being present and uniting in the report, twelve only were present, and of these only seven approved, and some of these with extreme reluctance But, I am free to confess, I am dissatisfied both with the bill and the report, and I am unqualifiedly opposed to both. And I know I shall be pardoned if I speak plainly, for I confess to a deep interest and an abiding faith in the good work this institution has done and is doing, and I firmly believe in its ultimate triumphant success over all opposition

But, Mr Speaker and gentlemen, if this bill and this report is offered in a professed spirit of friendship and kindness, I say good Lord deliver us from such friends, and we will try and protect ourselves from our enemy. And, gentlemen, I boldly characterize that bill and report, as a shrewd, mann ng and well devised printed stump speech against the college, and its whole object and aim to prejudice your minds against it, and I fear its authors have been actuated by unworthy and improper motives. Why, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, pass that bill, and you destroy that institution. Change the present course of instruction, and allow only three instead of four years for the full prescribed course, cut off a leading and prominent part of the course in mathematics and the modern languages entirely, and you degrade it to the level of an academy, or high school, you change its character, you destroy its usefulness.

That bill strikes at the very life of the college. And I am pained to be forced to declare, I fear such must have been the design of its originators. Sure I am, they can have no love for the Institution. Gentlemen, I speak as I feel in this matter and I profess to know something about this college, for I was at its inception and location in our beautiful village, have watched its growth and know whereof I affirm, and I entreat your candid and candid attention, while I proceed to explain somewhat fully. Mr. Wilson here read the act of Congress donating 210 000 acres of land to the Institution. He also read the act of our legislature accepting the land and the trust and covenant to comply and fully carry out the object and designs of the donors, and read extracts from the report of the legislative committee, made in 1864 He gave also a brief history of its location at Orono, and of the generous contributions made by Luther Sabine Bangor, Oldtown and Orono, $25 000 in all, and said it is true, the state has done something in times past for the college but nothing like what it should have done, and nothing like what many other States have done. Why, gentlemen, the State of Illinois has given to her college $330,000, Pennsylvania, $270 000, Massachusetts, $312,000, Iowa, $320,000, California, $1 500 000, while Maine has, as the great praise in the report shows, given only $180,718.

Right here, allow me to state, while Maine sold, or I should more properly say, gave to speculators and pretended land hangers on, and realized only the small sum of 55 cents on the average per acre, selling some at 51 to 53 cents per acre, some other States limited the sale of their lands to $2 50 and $5, per acre, notably New York and Michigan, and $1.25 is the minimum price for all public lands. At $1 25 our college would have had a permanent fund of $262,500, at $2 00 a fund of $420,000, at $3 00 a fund of $630 000, at $4 00 a fund of $840,000; at $5 00 a fund of $1 050 000

Either of these sums, at 6 per cent. interest, would have proved a handsome endowment and placed the college in independent circumstances, and in either event, it ere would have been no need of the humiliating appeal to this legislature for aid, especially, when it is given with such reluctance. And the question is often asked, how happened such a sacrifice? Who perpetrated this great wrong? By what authority and when was this strange transaction accomplished? The sale was made in 1866, by the Governor and Council, and I happened to know some of the individuals who shared in the spoils. I do not charge it as a party transaction, for Democrats as well as Republicans were concerned and some of each made a splendid thing out of it

Now there was no necessity of selling an acre at that time. No location had been agreed upon, and of course no buildings had been erected. The sale was ill-advised, premature, and in direct violation of the act of Congress and of this state, as gentlemen will see by the sections I have read in your hearing. And now, gentlemen, it is by reason of this breach of trust, this cruel robbery of a noble institution, that the trustees and friends of the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, are compelled to come here from year to year to solicit your aid. But, gentlemen, we scorn the accusation of being "beggars" We have an equitable, if not a legitimate claim upon the State for money due us. We are not "beggars" We ask and respectfully petition only for our honest dues and to obtain our rights.

It is an undisputed principle in law, that what one does by his agent, he does by himself, and he must abide the consequences. The agents of the State disposed of this trust property contrary to law, in plain violation of the true interests of the party owning, and to its great injury and loss. And in my humble judgment, there is no jury, no court in christendom which would hesitate to pronounce the act, under the facts and circumstances, a fraud! And equity would decree a restoration in value and amount.

And, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, this institution is not only not a "beggar," it is the legitimate offspring of the State, and a worthy son of a noble sire. Will she disclaim and disown? Can this State afford to refuse needful support in a time of want and actual need, and especially, under the facts and circumstances? I am unwilling—I will not believe our noble State will prove thus unreasonable and unwise.

I confess it is unfortunate and to be regretted, that this institution must be constantly assailed and its influence crippled by men, and from sources that ought to promote and build up, rather than injure. The cause of this opposition is three-fold:

1st, Ignorance of what the college has done and is doing.

2nd, Prejudice without reason, and the result of want of proper information of its true character.

3d, Jealousy, without cause.

The first two never fail to yield on proper examination and observation. And I have yet to see the first intelligent person who has visited the college and seen and heard for himself—when not blinded by green eyed jealousy, who was not made a convert to its great usefulness, if not its absolute necessity.

I do not intend to judge improperly, but my fears, originating in what I have seen and heard and from suspicious circumstances, lead me to the belief, that our other State colleges have, and do oppose, all appropriations to this. If actuated by kindly feelings and kindred associations, why is this?

In my humble judgment not one in twenty of the boys who enter the State college would ever go to Bowdoin, or Colby, or Bates. They are for the most part the sons of poor men, and young men, who could not afford to pay the greatly increased expense at either of these colleges. The cost at the State college is certainly not more than one-fourth of what I know it to be at these, for I have educated two sons at Bowdoin, and am now educating my youngest and seventh son at the state college, and he is now on the second term of his third year. Besides, the course of study is for the most part quite different, except that Bowdoin has been adopting a portion of the mathematical and civil engineering course first adopted at the State college.

And again, their general plans and future pursuits in life are different. So that there is no real cause of jealousy. And these older and more firmly established colleges can well afford to be magnanimous and even generous, instead of opposing and undervaluing.

I entertain a very high regard for Bowdoin also Colby and Bates, but just now my sympathy and interests are identified in the State college and I know it has strong claims upon the people of the State to aid and encourage. And I believe, that no other institution in Maine can, or ever has trained young men more thoroughly and practically in mathematics, in chemistry and chemical analysis, in botany, the natural sciences, in civil engineering and the surveyor's art, to say nothing of the mechanic arts and of the military

And gentlemen, this is not mere conjecture and guess work, I speak what I know, for I have been conversant with all its plans and operations during the eleven years of its existence

I am myself a graduate of Dartmouth, and have attended many of her commencements, and I have also attended several at Bowdoin, and I do no injustice to either, when I say the students of the State college compare excellently well with the others and are not inferior.

And now I must be allowed to say a word as to the Faculty. Mr Speaker and gentlemen, do you know, and are you acquainted with President Fernald? To those who have the pleasure of his acquaintance, I have no need to say a single word. He is a graduate of Bowdoin is now about forty years old, has made teaching his profession. His whole soul is in the work and no man has had more invariable success. He was the first Professor of this State college and many years ago on, if to have been and would have been its President, but for his modesty. And in the opinion of the Trustees and all familiar with the management of its business and the executive department, his services have been indispensable and of the highest value.

As a scholar, in aptness to teach and capacity to communicate and inspire youth, he excels, as an executive officer and in the government and discipline of young men, he has no superior. And I do not undervalue President Chamberlain or the worthy Presidents of Bates and Colby, when I say to you, he is their peer in everything that contributes to the high character of such an office. He is the right man in the right place. As to the other Professors, they are gentlemen and well adapted to the responsible positions they hold as educators in their several departments

I come now to say a word about the young men, members of and graduates of this College. The 1st class graduated in 1872 The whole number of graduates is one hundred and nineteen, but, there have been connected with the college, not including those now in college, one hundred and sixty-seven, of the two hundred and eighty six students who have been connected with the college for a longer, or shorter period, the vocation of one hundred and ninety-nine may be considered established of these 26 per cent. are engaged in Agricultural pursuits, 26 per cent. in the Mechanic Arts And of those whose vocations are established, only 12 per cent. of them are in professional life, while 88 per cent are engaged in non-professional occupations. And here, I will state another highly interesting and important fact, and that is as to the moral character of these young men. The labor in the field, in the work-shop, in the Laboratory, and their continuous occupation and busy life here, prevents and expels idleness and consequent bad habits and vice And it is a known and established fact, that no single graduate from this college has thus far been known, by any vicious habit, or immoral act to have brought disgrace upon himself, his family or his Alma Mater. Can any other college during any eleven years of its existence boast of such a noble record?

Here Mr. Wilson set forth the wants of the college, as reported by the Trustees, on pages 7 and 8 of their report for 1880

He also read an interesting letter from Senator H Hamlin, strongly recommending it as worthy of aid and continued patronage from the State. He also stated that he had liberty to use the name of his Excellency, Gov. Davis, most cordially endorsing and recommending it to the legislature as a most worthy institution and favoring an appropriation.

Mr. Wilson proceeded to say, that every time the Trustees present their claim, somebody,—and this time the committee,—hunt up and parade before the legislature, and send it out to the people in trumpet tones, "you have already had $180,000" what has become of that sum?" and gravely ask "how do you account for this?" Well, if gentlemen will only read the annual reports made by the Trustees and Faculty, they would be saved a deal of trouble and apparent anxiety. But, no, they don't, and don't care to! They would thus become wiser than they wish to be.

Now gentlemen, I propose to show what has been done, and how this apparently large sum has been expended. It has not been squandered or wasted, I assure you there has been no "steal" here. The State owns and has in full possession the farm and farm buildings, three dwelling houses, occupied by the President and professors, three large college buildings, chemical, astronomical and philosophical apparatus, a valuable library, farm stock, etc, etc, all of which is minutely inventoried by the farm superintendent, as you will see printed in the report of the trustees, and to which I respectfully refer you Without repeating, I will now be more specific and state the appraised cash value of the property, and I assure you I have put each item very low.

Farm, 375 acres, much of it under high cultivation and 100 acres of splendid wood land, cost $11,000,
Value at	$10,000
Farming tools,	1 500
Stock,	3 500
Buildings,	110 000
Apparatus,	12 000
Library,	4,500
Furniture and carriages,	1,500
	$143,000

But, I am told, you make but $143,000, whereas you have had from the State $180,000. To this I make further answer, that, you must make reasonable allowance for shrinkage and the usual wear, and for repairs during the eleven years the college has been in working order, for insurance, for the travelling expenses of the trustees, not less than $500 per year, including the time there were sixteen trustees And there are many other items, that will readily occur to the mind of any candid business man Besides quite a sum paid for professors' salaries, averaging at least twelve to fifteen hundred dollars for the past eight or nine years. Undoubtedly mistakes have been made. It would, indeed, be remarkable if none had been made. But I am sure, I hazard nothing in comparing our college with those of other States of a like character.

But, gentlemen, I am wearying myself and you, and have already detained you quite too long My faith and strong, deep interest in its future, is my excuse, and with me, sufficient apology. Mr Wilson again called attention to the acts establishing the college, and to the fact that the amount of the fund cannot be diminished, that not a dollar can be used for building purposes or repairs, &c, but only and solely must the annual income be appropriated for instruction And the committee would change the whole course of study. Can't allow the Trustees who are appointed by the Governor, and Council to prescribe, nor the Faculty to recommend and approve? Oh, no, the legislature by its committee must do that! Who ever before heard of such a proposition! It is an insult to the trustees and faculty, an insult to the State The modern languages and higher mathematics must be ignored in the State college Farmers and mechanics and poor men's sons must not be allowed such luxuries. These are reserved for Bowdoin and Colby To be sure Dr. Woods when he proposed to have this institution connected with Bowdoin, did recommend a similar and almost the identical course now pursued at the State College, including French and German, and so also, did the President of Colby College, and here Mr. Wilson read from several suggested courses.

In conclusion Mr Wilson said Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, we prefer absolutely nothing to such a bill It is death to the college, we protest against it. Hands off, we say, leave us to our fate, but don't undertake to dictate to the trustees and faculty and prescribe for them what rules they shall adopt, or what studies to pursue. If you intend, gentlemen, to preserve the honor and plighted faith of our good State, you will vote down the bill, and vote for and sustain the resolve giving us a reasonable sum in aid of the college, which will ere long become the pride of, and do honor to, the State.

National Republican Convention.

A National Convention of the Republican party will meet at Chicago on Thursday, the 3d day of June next, at 12 o'clock noon, for the nomination of candidates to be supported for President and Vice President at the next election. Republicans and all who will co-operate with them in supporting the nominees of the party are invited to choose two delegates from each Congressional District, four at large from each State, two from each Territory and two from the District of Columbia to represent them in the Convention.

J D CAMERON,
Chairman National Committee

THOMAS B. KEOGH, Secretary.

THE COMMERCIAL MAN DON'T LIKE THE FIGURES.

The Commercial devotes a whole column of rigmarole to show its dislike of the facts and figures so pertinently presented in the brief remarks of Governor Davis at Portland last week. Evidently the showing is not such as reflect any glory upon the Fusion party in the light of the coming campaign, but we shall be glad to have the people examine the facts and figures that so greatly disturb the Commercial editor. The State Treasurer's Reports for 1878 and 1879 are easy to understand. Let us look at them.

On Dec. 31, 1878 the Treasury stood as follows:

" 13, Temporary Loan, (then due)	150,000 00
Leaving on that day a balance in favor of the Treasury of	$7,256 20

On Dec. 31, 1879, the Treasury stood as follows

Page 1, Cash in Treasury,	$ $69,413 47
" 9, Temporary Loan, (then due)	125,000 00
Leaving on that day a balance against the Treasury of	$55 586 53

Thus the close of the year left a balance of nearly $56 000 against the Treasury as stated. The Commercial's attempt to muddle about the Temporary Loan is disposed of by the simple fact that for some years such a loan has been authorized by successive Legislatures, to meet any sudden demands on the Treasury that may be made before the taxes can be collected. A Temporary Loan of $300,000 was authorized for the benefit of the Treasury in 1878 and the Fusion Legislature authorized a like loan for the same amount for the Treasury in 1879. The present Legislature has done the same and the present Treasurer will do as his predecessors have done, viz hire such sums on short time as the wants of the Treasury may demand, to be paid out of the taxes assessed this year.

The Treasury has been run on a four mills basis for some years, until this year, the Republican State Government found the bonded debt of the State maturing and were obliged to make provision for its payment, besides providing for other unusual expenses, including some that were entirely new in the history of our State. Under this condition of affairs the present Legislature, almost without a dissenting voice, voted for a five mills tax. The extra mill is to supply the nearly $56 000 deficiency in the Treasury; to pay off $50-000 of the bonded debt to pay $26 000 of the State Prison debt; $12 000 for the expenses of taking the decennial valuation; $3 600 for Plaisted & Appleton's Digest, $18 000 for clothing the militia, and also the great expense to the State of sustaining the Government against the most shameless conspiracy that ever threatened the rights of a free people. These items will account for the extra tax of one mill, and the people will fully understand it. The policy of paying off yearly a portion of our bonded debt, which was strongly urged by Governor Davis in his inaugural address and in his official intercourse, is a direct way of stopping interest and maintaining the credit of the State, that will be approved by the citizens of the State.

The principal figures of the financial situation are given above and we are ready to go to the people upon them. The drivel about "salaries" and about "vouchers" for money paid the police who protected the Capitol against the revolutionary fraud which the Commercial so industriously upholds, is not worthy of comment.

ADULTERATION OF SUGAR.

The adulteration of this important article of food has assumed such extensive proportions that the attention of the public is more and more directed to it, and the leading trade journals of the country are making it the subject of earnest comment. As sugar is a staple commodity that enters in some of its forms into the daily food of every family, its systematic adulteration is a matter of public interest and we have therefore copied in another column a recent article of the New York Journal of Commerce, together with a card from some of the leading sugar refiners bearing on the subject.

FOGG'S "REPLY."

[From the Boston Journal.]

That very amusing person, ex-Councillor Fogg of Maine, publishes in his own paper a very curious broadside entitled "My Reply" to the Hale Committee, which has been cut down and published in the Globe. It is largely rant and recrimination and so absurd and ridiculous that the better Fusion journals will not reproduce it. The only case Mr. Fogg takes up in earnest is that of Mr. Bowler, who, as the Clerk of the town of Somerville, testified to the Hale Committee that soon after the State election he was called upon by some party in Augusta to make out a return differing from that sent directly after the election, and that he did make such return and sent it to the Secretary of State. At that time Mr. Bowler refused to give the name of the party at Augusta who wrote him, giving instructions about a new return. Recently Mr. Fogg had Mr. Bowler at Auburn and obtained from him an affidavit to the effect that the Postmaster at Somerville got him to furnish him with a certified copy of the returns, furnishing a blank for the purpose. And now Mr. Fogg is so foolish as to think that intelligent people will mistake this certified copy of the record, which the Republican Advisory Committee undertook openly to get from every town and plantation in the State in November, for the return which Mr. Bowler made out in obedience to instructions from Augusta, and upon a blank which he testifies was mailed to him from Augusta soon after the election! This is about the extent of Mr. Fogg's attempt to break the force of the testimony taken by the Hale Committee by counter evidence.

Secretary Sherman leaves for Boston the latter part of the week.

Now comes Hon. ex-Councillor H. H. Monroe, of Thomaston, and says that instead of Gov. Garcelon "knowing nothing about the tabulation," he knew all about it and assisted in it.

ANOTHER PATRIOT VETERAN GONE.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL H. K. THATCHER, U. S. N.

Yesterday forenoon George A. Thatcher, Esq., of this city, received a telegram with the sad announcement of the death of his cousin, the distinguished Admiral H K. Thatcher, of the U. S. Navy, at the Evans House, Boston, early Monday morning, after an illness of several months.

Henry Knox Thatcher was born in Thomaston in 1806, his mother being the oldest daughter of General Knox, of Revolutionary fame. He attended school in the town of Warren and was afterwards educated for the U S Navy, which since he entered March 4, 1823. Of his distinguished career in the Navy we are unable to give an adequate sketch in this issue, but hereafter we shall present a review of a public career covering a long period of years in which the deceased rendered most valuable and brilliant service to his country, in peace and in war.

The death of Admiral Thatcher comes home to us with the peculiar sorrow that is felt in the loss of an old and honored commander. It was the fortune of the editor of this journal to serve under Admiral Thatcher in 1864-5 in the West Gulf Squadron, first in charge of a vessel of his fleet during the operations against Mobile and in the waters of upper Alabama, and later in command of the Naval Division occupying the waters of Mississippi Sound, etc, between New Orleans and Mobile Bay. Of the ability and success with which Admiral Thatcher conducted the naval operations of that memorable period we need not speak, as history has preserved that bright record. The Secretary of the Navy, in a letter extending the thanks of the Department, concluded as follows.

"I am happy in extending to you and those under your command, and to Major General Granger, and those under his command, the congratulations of the Navy Department for this victory, which places in our possession. with but one exception, all the chief points on the Southern coast, and bids fair to be the closing naval contest of the rebellion."

Of the kindness of heart, the frank cordiality, the rugged New England energy, the sterling patriotism and the old-fashioned courtesy of the Admiral, we can freely bear witness, in memory of that eventful period. In 1871, at the celebration of the opening of the E & N. A Railway, Admiral Thatcher was with President Grant as one of Bangor's distinguished guests, and we then met him for the first time since the close of the war. We hold a vivid and most pleasing recollection of the almost paternal kindness of the greeting of our old commander, and of the too generous praise with which he spoke to others of our humble service. He was one of the last of the old school of naval heroes, as he was the last male descendant of the family of General Knox.

Admiral Thatcher had made his home for some years in Winchester, Mass, but was accustomed to spending his winters in Boston. He had been suffering some months from a complication of illness, and died on Monday at the age of about 74 years. He leaves a wife and an adopted daughter, with whom the loyal people of the whole country will unite in mourning the loss of a staunch patriot, a veteran warrior and honored citizen.

George A. Thatcher, Esq, of this city, left on the train last evening to attend the funeral.

The Washington special in Monday's Boston Journal says "The Blaine Club has telegrams from Iowa stating that ten counties have so far elected 135 delegates to the Republican State Convention—all Blaine men, and instructed to vote for Blaine delegates to Chicago. Jefferson County, Ohio, has elected eight delegates to the State Convention and instructed them to vote for a Blaine delegation to Chicago. Four counties in Illinois have elected 42 delegates to the State Convention, of whom 30 are for Blaine, 11 for Grant and 1 for Sherman."

CALAIS, April 5. The Republicans elect the Mayor and full Board of Aldermen. The Mayor's majority is four hundred against one hundred and twenty last spring. S.

FROM BATH.

The Kennebec Open to Navigation.

BATH, April 5. The Kennebec river is clear of ice and vessels are moving up. The steamer Star of the East will commence trips from Boston Tuesday evening.

FROM CALAIS.

Municipal Election—The Republicans Carry Every Ward.

CALAIS, April 5. The municipal election was quiet and the vote light. For Mayor, Boardman, Republican, 578; Pool, Fusion, 189. Last year Boardman had 519, Lawrence, Greenback, 272; Emerson, Democrat, 45. The Republicans carry every ward by increased majorities and gain one ward. The Greenbackers and Democrats combined on one ticket.

FROM FORT FAIRFIELD.

Farmers' Convention.

FORT FAIRFIELD, April 5. The Farmers' Convention held an interesting session at Caribou Friday and Saturday. The following officers were elected: President, Columbus Hayford; Vice Presidents, Wm Haughton and Hiram Morse; Secretary, E. Wiggin.

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS--Second Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 5. Bill to facilitate the negotiations of bills of lading and other commercial instruments and to punish fraud therein was indefinitely postponed.

Bill granting a pension to Jesse F. Pharves was laid aside.

The Senate took up the agreement with the Ute Indians. Mr. Dawes opposed the bill. It provides for the support of four thousand persons for an indefinite length of time and would cost at least four millions. These Indians would not become self-supporting while on the barren soil of a narrow reservation, subjected to encroachments of enterprising miners, subsisting on rations doled out by the Government from day to day. The bill did not go to the root of the question as to how we shall treat Indian tribes. He reviewed the Government's policy toward the Indians and declared his belief that numerous wars and an immense amount of trouble were due to the faithlessness of the whites toward the Indians. He would prefer to see the $4,000,000 appropriated by this bill expended in the education of the young Indians. Such a policy would gradually bring about a peaceable settlement of the Indian question.

At 4:10 the Senate went into executive session, and when the doors reopened, adjourned.

House.

Bill requiring the Postmaster-General to mail on the first of each month to every member of Congress an itemized statement of all mail contracts made during the preceding month was referred.

Bills introduced to reduce the tax on distilled spirits; it abolishes the tax on spirits distilled from fruits and grain to 25 cents a gallon.

To amend revised statutes so that duties paid on sugar shall be assessed upon the quantity delivered from instead of entered into bonded houses.

Mr. Manning had an article from the Post read relative to the action of Springer in the Donnelly-Washburn case denying all statements in said article.

Mr. Springer, speaking with some feeling, said this was the first time during his many years of public service, that a charge of this kind affecting his integrity as a Representative of the people, had ever been made. He submitted the correspondence with the writer of the article in the Post, showing that the story was based upon information received from Mr. Manning. As the latter gentleman disclaimed the responsibility for the article, he, Springer, would leave it as a question of veracity between Manning and the Post. Mr. Springer explained that he did not desire an investigation of the charges against him as it would bring his wife's name before the country. He then read the anonymous "bribery" letter, which was as follows:

WASHINGTON, April 4.

SIR:—If you will keep Washburn in his seat in spite of the Democrats we will pay Mrs. S. $5,000. Get the thing squashed at once.

This was not written by a Republican, as he would show further on. He related how the letter was received at his house during his absence and opened by his wife, who acted as his private Secretary. She did not consider that it was a proposition of bribery coming from Washburn's friends but indignantly received it as a deliberate attempt on the part of Donnelly and his friends to insult and bulldoze him, Springer, because they learned he was not going to vote to seat him. It was for that reason she started to see him, and stated that an insulting attempt had been made toward herself and husband.

Mr. Julian, counsel for Donnelly, asked permission that Donnelly might be called that he might exculpate himself from the charge of attempting to insult me. He was permitted to do so on the express understanding that the matter should go no further than himself and Julian until my return to the city. That agreement was broken immediately by Donnelly. Springer then read a long letter from Finley, one of Donnelly's friends, which appealed to him not to vote against the adoption of the sub-committee's report which gave the seat to Donnelly. The hand writing of this letter was so similar to that of the anonymous letter that neither he, Springer, nor any of the gentlemen who had compared the letters had any doubt but that they were written by the same person.

Springer disclaimed any intention to deceive and was supported in this statement by several members of the committee whom he called upon to give their views. Springer then challenged any member of the committee or the House, except Manning, to assert that he had led him to believe that he would act otherwise than he did. He would not ask an investigation, but would not object if any one wanted it. He submitted to the House and to the country whether he had not conscientiously discharged his duty in the matter. If the gentleman from Mississippi, (Manning) had been misled by inadvertence or accident, he, Springer, regretted it.

Mr. Manning closed the discussion defending Donnelly against the imputations made against him by Springer.

Mr. Weather then moved to suspend the rules and pass to the resolutions investing the Government with all the power to issue and control the currency of the country and making certain provisions for the payment of the bonded debt maturing in '81. The motion was defeated.

A motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill to amend the statutes in regard to the immediate transportation of dutiable goods was agreed to.

A motion was made to suspend the rules so as to discharge the Committee of Ways and Means from further consideration of the bill placing salt, printing type, printing paper and materials used in the manufacture of printing paper on the free list, and put it on its passage. The motion was defeated; yeas 112, nays 80; not the necessary two-thirds. Adjourned.

THE CUBAN MOVEMENT.

Spanish Authorities Informed of the Expedition.

Recruits in New Jersey to Descend on the Coast.

NEW YORK, April 5. The Tribune gives the following relating to the Cuban movement: When the Spanish Minister at Washington informed Secretary Evarts that there was an organized movement on foot in this country to send an organized force to Cuba, he intimated that this city contained the headquarters of the movement.

The department at once communicated with District Attorney Woodford and his assistant, Mr. Wilson, was detailed to investigate the matter. Last week Wilson received information from the Spanish Consulate that an expedition was about starting for Cuba from a point on the Delaware coast.

The Spanish authorities stated that one of their officials had represented himself as a Cuban patriot and had enlisted in the body of men about to leave this country. Between 40 and 50 recruits, a majority of whom were mulattos, he reported had assembled at a small village in New Jersey and they were under orders to go to some point in Delaware.

The man's instructions were to remain with the body until he had enabled the authorities to arrest the men; but being over zealous, after the men had got on the train and were on their way as he believed to Lewes, he jumped off at a way station and came to this city. Whether the fact of his desertion alarmed the commander of the expedition is not known. It is surmised by the Spanish authorities that fearing treachery the Cubans abandoned Lewes at the point as embarkation and proceed further south.

The Spanish authorities claim to have full particulars as to the expedition and profess to believe that the men have been taken on a regular West India steamer and that they will be dropped on the south shore of the Island of Cuba.

THE FIRE. An alarm of fire was sounded last night at about half-past ten o'clock and the department responded, but after going some distance down the Hampden road they returned to their quarters. The fire was some distance out of the city and the report was quite current on the street that the paper mill at Hampden was burned. Whether this report was correct or not we were unable to ascertain last night.

MARBLES. The dealers have purchased their usual stock of marbles in order to meet the demand of the juvenile trade this season. The one cent of the small boy buys four or five "taws," and marbles cost the importer only about forty cents per thousand. Marbles come from Germany, where they are manufactured in large quantities, and where the game is even more popular than here. The argillaceous stone from which they are made, is cut into small square dies which are rounded and polished in a mill of hard stones. The square pieces are roughed out by small children and old men too infirm for more arduous work, and are carried to the manufacturer, who pays them three or four cents per hundred for the square bits of soft rock. The cost of making marbles is therefore next to nothing. Saxony furnishes nearly all the toy marbles that are used by the children of the world.

Shaw, Mrs. A. E. Pote. The Association will continue their rehearsals this fall. We hope that they will not overlook their annual excursion this summer, as they always arrange an excellent trip.

CHANGES ON THE EASTERN RAILROAD. An important change was made in the locomotive service on the Eastern Railroad commencing yesterday. From time immemorial the line between Portland and Boston has been in two divisions, locomotive and engine men changing at Portsmouth each way. Hereafter the men will run through with their locomotive the entire length. No changes will be made at Portsmouth. By this arrangement, three locomotives will do all the through work in winter, where six are now required. The locomotives will double the road between Portland and Boston, but the men will double only once in two days, giving two sets of men to each locomotive. This economy of rolling stock is necessitated by the increase of freight business, and notwithstanding four new locomotives have recently been added.

MILITARY AFFAIRS. The Lewiston Journal says: Important changes in the military affairs of Maine are now being considered in the Adjutant General's office. And Lewiston and Auburn, are, of course, interested. The Androscoggin Light Artillery, were formerly the only artillery company in the State, but a battery with three sections—one in Lewiston, one in Portland and one in Bangor—is now being organized, orders to that effect having been issued. Two guns only, now remain in Lewiston, in charge of Capt. Meneally. An entire re-organization of the Maine militia is contemplated, and among the proposals being considered, is one to form two regiments, one east and one west of the Kennebec river. No decision on the matter has been reached. Many military men are taking great interest in the matter and are trying to effect this arrangement. By the way, the style of the new uniform adopted by the State for the militia is almost precisely similar to the dress uniform of the Auburn Light Infantry; the coat is exactly the same, the pants simply a shade lighter and the cap slightly different. There is some talk of forming another company in Auburn."

BUCKSPORT & BANGOR RAILROAD. As soon as the ground settles so that the Maine Central Railroad Company can change their time table, it is proposed to run three trains a day between this city and Bucksport. The first train will arrive here in the morning in season to connect with the St. John and western trains, and return to Bucksport at half-past seven; the next train will leave Bucksport between ten and eleven o'clock, arriving here about noon and returning at half-past one; the mail train will leave Bucksport at five o'clock, arriving here at a few minutes past six and returning after the arrival of the Boston train. Negotiations are now pending whereby passengers who purchase a round-trip ticket can go to Bucksport by rail and return by boat, or go by boat and return by rail, as they see fit. Negotiations are also pending for a steamer to run daily between Bucksport and Rockland to connect with B. & B. and Knox & Lincoln Railroads, and for a first-class stage line between Bucksport and Ellsworth to connect with the boats and train. This is all being done at the instigation of S. S. Lincoln, Esq., the energetic and popular manager of the railroad.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

A Man Falls into the Stream and is Rescued after being in the Water Twenty Minutes.

At a few minutes past ten o'clock last night cries of distress were heard, which seemed to come from the vicinity of the E. & N. A. draw bridge. They were repeated several times when the officers and those on the street became convinced that some one had fallen into the water, and in a very few minutes a large crowd had assembled on the bridge.

It was quite dark but a man was seen clinging to a cake of ice a few feet below the draw bridge, and active preparations were made for his rescue. The unfortunate man assured the crowd that he was able to retain his position for a few minutes, and the officers hurried to the depot where ropes, poles and a lantern were obtained, after which they returned to the bridge. The rope was thrown within reach of the man, but instead of making it fast about his person he grasped it with both hands and let go his hold on the ice. Those on the bridge thinking he had made it fast attempted to draw him up, but he was unable to hold the weight of his body and they were obliged to let him down into the water again. He was then drawn to the end of the wharf where Archie Gallagher was lowered down and made a rope fast about the man and both of them were drawn up on the wharf. The unfortunate man was then taken into the waiting room at the depot, where there was a warm fire, his clothes removed and towels procured, after which he was thoroughly rubbed. His clothes were dried on the steam radiator and he was soon feeling all right again.

We understand that his name is Alex. McDonald and that he belongs in the Provinces and just came out of the woods. He was intoxicated and it is supposed that he walked off the wharf above the bridge and floated down on a cake of ice. It was a very narrow escape.

"All the Rage".

Mr. Wm. D. Eaton's farcical comedy in four acts, entitled "All the Rage," will be presented in Norombega Hall, under the management of the Buskin Club, on Wednesday evening, 14th inst. This comedy, after a five weeks run in Boston, has in reality become "all the rage" throughout New England, it having been played for the past month in the principal cities to a succession of large and delighted audiences.

The plot turns upon a case of mistaken identity. There are two people of the same name—one, Will Goodwin, a young journalist who has written a sentimental novel, and a Dr. William Goodwin, an ignorant and vulgar chiropodist. A Dr. DeWitt C. Briggs, a peppery old fellow, desires to secure a nomination to Congress. A paragraph written by young Goodwin in a morning paper opposes him as a "graveyard candidate," and adds that his election would be secured if all of his defunct patients could go from the burying-ground to the polls. This enrages the aspiring politician, who resolves to chastise the offender, whom he follows to Long Branch for that purpose. It so chances that the corn doctor is abiding at that fashionable resort, and, being vain as well as ignorant, he allows himself to be taken for the journalist and novelist,—in other words, the other Goodwin. He greedily swallows the compliments passed upon him as the author of the successful novel. His complacent vanity, however, receives a check when he comes in contact with the irate politician, who, of course, takes him for his libeller. It would spoil the enjoyment of those intending to see the piece if we were to detail its story at any length; but its possibilities in affording amusement may be obtained by a recapitulation of a few of the characters. In the first place there is an aspiring maiden who has written a nine-act tragedy; and she has a rough-and-tumble father who is prepared to annihilate anybody who suggests a doubt of his daughter's consummate literary genius. There is also a sentimental young creature, the daughter of the politician, who gushes over the author of the novel without ever having seen him. Then there is a young fellow who exchanges names with the journalist, thus leaving three William Goodwins to complicate the story and to confuse those seeking, loving, or waiting to know the original.

The sale of reserved seats will commence at D. Bugbee & Co.'s on Thursday morning next, and we advise an early call, as there will certainly be a large demand for the choice seats.

Senator Blaine's Reception.

The last of Senator Blaine's March receptions given last Saturday evening, was more elegant and more numerously attended than either of its predecessors.—These delightful entertainments have been the most elegant feature of the lenten season. Senator and Mrs Blaine, Miss Dodge, and, at the last reception, Mr. Emmons Blaine, were untiring in their hospitable efforts to render each evening more entertaining to their guests than the last, and there is no doubt of their success. Every Saturday night during March has seen the parlors of the Senator's house crowded with the elite of Washington. The stranger in that city who desires to see the distinguished residents and visitors in Washington, diplomats, cabinet officers, Senators, Congressmen, literary and professional men, has but to attend these charming receptions.

Among those present on last Saturday evening were Justices Swayne, Strong and Field of the Supreme Court, Miss Julia Strong, Senator and Mrs. Cockrell, Senator and Mrs. Hill of Colorado, Senator and Mrs. Saunders, Senator Anthony, Senator Burnside, Senator Pendleton, Senator James of Florida, Gen. and Mrs. Garfield, Congressman Stevenson and Mrs. Stevenson of Illinois, Representative Blackburn and Miss Blackburn, Representative, Mrs. and Miss Newberry of Michigan and their guest, Mrs. Ledyard of Detroit, Representative Robeson and Floyd King, Representative and Miss Norcross, Mrs. Gov. Claflin, Gen. Sherman, Gen. Van Vliet, Gen. Myer and daughter, Admiral and Miss Porter, Surgeon General and Miss Barns, Capt. Jewett, Pay-Director Smith, Gen. Alvord, Col. and Mrs. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Ainsworth R. Spofford, Prof. and Mrs. Rotts of New York, Capt. Story, Col. and Mrs. Burea, Maj. and Mrs. Nickerson, and Miss Chandler of Boston, who has been, during former visits to Washington, the guest of Mrs. Justice Swayne.

GLUCOSE ADULTERATION OF SUGAR.

[From the N. Y. Journal of Commerce.]

We have recently received a number of inquiries concerning "glucose" and its use in the adulteration of sugar. The article itself has been sometime on the market. Our elder readers will remember our elaborate discussions more than fifteen years ago of the possibility of making crystallized sugar from the saccharine principle contained in Indian corn. Against our oft-repeated warnings certain of our sanguine citizens invested largely in a project which they fondly deemed would bring them a sudden fortune. Even if they could not crystallize the sweets from corn, they could at least make a beautiful golden syrup, much more attractive in appearance than the ordinary product of the sugar house and at a much more reasonable price.

They succeeded in this, and we well remember with what a smile of triumph the late Mr. Ockershausen presented us with a sample of the earliest products of the works in which he had an interest. It was a success that resulted only in the bitterest disappointment. The beautiful syrup soured soon after it was produced, and would not retain its original flavor long enough to make for itself a profitable market.

Recently the glucose syrup made by treating corn with sulphuric acid after an improved process has been successfully used for cheapening and beautifying the ordinary sugar-house syrup. It could be bought for 3⅝ cents a pound, and thus, while costing far less than the syrup from cane sugar, added greatly to the appearance of the mixture. The large refiners have refused to use it, but have sold their own syrup to parties who have added the glucose and obtained a large trade for it all over the country.

While thus used for what we call the "adulteration" of syrup, efforts have been constantly directed to produce the glucose in such a form that it can be mixed with sugar. We do not believe that it can ever be made into genuine sugar crystals; but it has been turned into a dry, granulated form, the grains being little round pellets like minute homeopathic pills. This product costs about 4 cents a pound. For some time a number of persons have been purchasing the lower grades of refined sugars, known as soft yellow or coffee sugars, and adding from 15 to 25 per cent. of the glucose, returning the mixture to the market.

The success of the experiment is two fold; the product is cheapened while its appearance is greatly improved. A soft yellow sugar costing 7⅝ to 7¾ cents a pound has received a mixture of about one-fifth of white glucose costing 4 cents, and has then been sold as soft yellow of a higher grade at 8¼ cents.

The combination has cost half or five-eighths of a cent less than the soft yellow, and has sold at three-fourths of a cent more. The regular refiners have thus been placed in a dilemma. To be honest they must see their trade, or at least a large portion of its legitimate profits, taken away from them, or they must go into the mixing business on their own account. They feel that they cannot do the latter without letting the public into the secret, and thus compelling the buyers to share in the new responsibility.

For it is a grave responsibility, however flippantly the dealers may speak of it. We are not prepared to decide upon the character of the new compound as affecting the health of those who consume it. We have heard much pro and con upon this theme, without being able to make up our own mind upon evidence which we deem conclusive. Until the process of production is fully disclosed the charge that the prepared glucose is absolutely unwholesome cannot be fully sustained or disproved.

There is one point, however, upon which there can be, we think, no honest difference. The mixture ought not to be sold as the product of the sugar cane. The syrup ought not to be marketed by the ordinary name given to sugar-house syrup, nor ought an article one-fifth or one-quarter glucose to go by the name of sugar. We regard this as a cheat and a fraud, whether the mixture is or is not greatly injurious to health. The oleomargarine may not be unhealthy, but it cannot be sold by itself. It must be churned with milk before it can be sold as butter. In the same manner glucose by itself is not marketable for consumption. Only by mixing it with the more expensive product of the cane can it be sold for the table.

It is clear to us that the Legislature should take notice of these adulterations, and by a stringent law compel all who profit by it to label their product so that no intelligent person can be deceived by it. The leading refiners of this city have called the attention of the public to this matter in a communication which we print in another column. It tells its own story so clearly that it needs no further comment. But we felt that our duty to our readers required the presentation of our own views in regard to the practice thus exposed, and we hope that our legislators will rest long enough from their arduous political labors to give the public that protection which seems to be required by this new departure in the manufacture of sugar for the market.

[Card of Leading Sugar Refiners]

Editor of the Journal of Commerce:

Within the past two years the papers of the whole country abounded in articles and communications which in effect charged the sugar refiners of this city with selling to the public adulterated or impure sugars and syrups. These charges were indefinite and unproven, and yet were credited by the public to such an extent that a serious loss resulted to the sugar refiners from the diminished consumption of their products. The sin particularly emphasized was the admixture of glucose, though we do not remember that any one was bold enough to intimate an adulteration of over 5 per cent. and chemists, doctors and editors published opinions that the use of such sugar was causing serious injury to the public health. To the result of this agitation we desire to call public attention.

While at that time the adulteration, if practiced at all, was carried on secretly and within very narrow limits, it is now carried on openly and avowedly, and sugars adulterated to the extent of 15 or 20 per cent., as we have reason to believe, meet with a large and steadily increasing sale. The manipulator buys sugars from the refiners, adulterates them, and sells at prices below the current rates for pure sugars. The refiners at first refused to sell their sugars for this use, but since the degraded article has daily grown in favor, and is freely purchased under the new name of "new process sugar" by respectable dealers, they have yielded to an unavoidable necessity.

The present situation is this: Comparatively little refined syrup enters directly into consumption. It is sold to parties who make a business of mixing it with glucose, and who sell it in this form to dealers. This process is not carried on secretly, and is in the hands of some of our most upright and respectable citizens, and now refined sugar is openly adulterated on a large scale.

We call attention to these facts for the following reasons: First, we desire to anticipate and prevent another public excitement of which the victims shall be the sugar refiners; secondly, it is easy to see that there will be no end of the adulteration thus commenced if allowed to continue unchecked. Already we hear that "new process sugar" is ordered to be shipped unbranded, which means that it is to be branded as pure sugar by the buyer.

In view of the simplicity of the process and the cheapness of the new ingredient, it will not be long before adulterating agencies are established throughout the country, and it is reasonable to expect that wholesale and retail grocers will practice the art in their own behalf.

Certainly there should be prompt legislation in every State making it a misdemeanor for manufacturers and wholesale or retail dealers to sell adulterated goods without full notice to purchasers. It is worth mentioning that the number and capacity of the manufactories of glucose are being largely increased throughout the country.

The consuming public are now paying for adulterated sugar a price beyond its actual worth because they consider the color alone. Pure refined sugar of grades which can be adulterated cannot long maintain a contest against the mixed article if the people prefer or are willing to buy the latter, and in that case the refiners will be compelled to supply it though at its real value and below its present market rate. So far as we have information no New York refiner now sells adulterated sugars.

We think the agitation of the question at this time will prove beneficial to all interested.

Yours very respectfully,

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.
Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.
Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails.
Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8½ P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.
Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.
A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.
☞ The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.
